Over the years, Fleming Architects has designed and/or remodeled many components of the 50 acre Christian Brothers High School campus located in the heart of East Memphis. One of the first major projects that Fleming designed for CBHS was Tom Nix Stadium, which was named for the legendary football coach and athletic director, Tom Nix. The stadium has been home to Christian Brothers High School football since 1996, and those driving by the campus on Friday nights can see the 4,000 seat stadium alive with excitement over CBHS's football tradition.

“ He (Scott Fleming) met regularly with coaches and other staff members to turn practice fields into a fantastic facility. Scott is very sensitive to the practical and aesthetic sides of any new construction. The details he includes ensure a unified look to the CBHS campus as well as an attractiveness which promotes a good educational environment. ”
